

August 30th, 2018

Brecknell has diligently assessed relevant aspects of our products including but not limited to information from our suppliers, our manufacturing processes, and the design and intended use of our products. Based upon this assessment, Brecknell has determined that no exposure to Proposition 65 chemicals which would require a warning will result from reasonably foreseeable use of our products that are traded as Brecknell.